

ArkansasOnline

ENTERTAINMENT NOTES

Eric E. Harrison
April 30, 2017

Photographer Timothy Hursley has an exhibition opening Thursday at Garvey|Simon in New York. Photo: John Sykes, Jr.

Prize-winning photos

Architectural photographer Timothy Hursley of Little Rock, whose photograph of a two-headed calf took the top prize at the 2016 Delta Exhibition at the Arkansas Arts Center, has joined the Garvey/Simon gallery in New York. Garvey/Simon director Elizabeth Garvey was the juror for the 2016 "Delta Exhibition"; Hursley is the first photographer her gallery has represented.

Although Hursley has photographed the buildings of architects Philip Johnson, Yoshio Taniguchi, Frank Gehry and I.M. Pei, the gallery will feature photos he takes when he's not on assignment; his first show there, Timothy Hursley: Tainted Lens, will be up Thursday, June 10. Visit garveysimon.com.

<http://www.arkansasonline.com/news/2017/apr/30/bush-ready-to-rock-rogers-prized-musici/?f=entertainment>